Current Clients

Seams online learning modules have been developed not as a theoretical evolution in e-learning technology, but in response to the real challenges that we have seen facing businesses in the training and development of staff. Built to address common business needs, our content is designed to fit seamlessly into your existing training procedures, to streamline and simplify your compliance, induction and employee development training.

We will

What we can do for you

Conversion

You may have existing courses that need to be converted to an online format. Our dedicated e-learning team will review and develop the content and create media to maximise the instructional quality of your courses. You can rest assured that your courses will be of the highest standard and are compliant with SCORM, Tin Can/Experience API.

New Course Design

We work with your subject-matter experts to capture their knowledge and design a new eLearning course from the ground up. No matter what the topic is we can build a suite of e-learning courses to match your needs.

Consultancy

Our dedicated instructional design team will work with you to design material that can be used both on-line and in the class room. Projects may include needs analysis, knowledge capture, instructional design and storyboarding, multimedia content production, and technical consulting.
